

Tajweed Tip: Focus on Accuracy Before Tune

When learning to recite the Qur'an, it is important not to begin with a tune before your Tajweed is correct and flowing. Accuracy and proper pronunciation should always come first; melody can be added later.

Understanding Tajweed

Even after studying the rules of Tajweed, you may still face challenges. This is because Tajweed is not merely theoretical — it requires consistent practice. Reading silently from the Mushaf alone is often not sufficient to master the rules.

Practice Makes Perfect

Regular and focused practice is essential. One of the most effective ways to improve is by listening to expert reciters and following along. Recommended reciters include:

- Shaykh Mahmoud Al-Hussary
- Shaykh Muhammad Al-Minshawi
- Shaykh Ali Al-Hudhaify
- Shaykh Abdul Rashid Ali Sufi
- Shaykh Ma'sarawi
- Shaykh Ayman Suwayd
- Shaykh Waleed Shamsan
- Shaykh Abdullah Al-Juhany

These are just a few of the many accomplished reciters whose recitation can serve as a model.

Method for Improvement:

- Listen to one ayah at a time.
- Pause and repeat after the reciter.
- Focus on correct articulation and pronunciation.
- Practice this regularly, whether in class or at home.

Saturday 28th May 2026

11th Dhul Hijjah 1447

Key Point

With patience and consistent effort, your Tajweed will naturally improve over time, in shā' Allāh, strengthening both your recitation and your connection with the Qur'an.