

Hifz Tip: Strengthening Your Qur'an Revision (Dhor)

An effective way to revise your Qur'an is to follow a structured quarter-based routine. This method helps maintain consistency, accuracy, and fluency over time.

The Quarter Method

- Revise one Juz over four days, completing one quarter each day.
- On the fifth day, recite the entire Juz from memory.
- Only move on when you can recite with minimal mistakes (one or two at most).
- Gradually build up until you can comfortably recite five Juz together in one sitting.

Adapting the Method

If revising a full quarter feels heavy, start with half a quarter (a few pages) and increase as your strength grows. The key is steady, accurate progress.

Supervised Revision

Always recite to someone who knows their Qur'an well and can guide you through Mutashabihat (similar verses). Mark these verses in your Qur'an so you can review them regularly.

Accuracy and Discipline

If you make more than one mistake in a quarter or get stuck more than twice, count it as a fail and repeat the section. Learn the names of the Surahs, and recite slowly, clearly, and with focus. Avoid rushing through your recitation.

Final Advice

Consistency, clarity, and proper supervision are the foundations of strong Hifz. With dedication and structured revision, your Qur'an will remain firm and alive in your heart.
